Dear Dave,

Thanks for your letter of the 21st and the info. with it. If there was any charge, please let me know.

I had a vague recollection that something had been charged to Brown but was not clear.

I gather that the inheritance when to the other person.

These records do not say.

If so, that means that the claim Madeleine filed was not honored. And that would seem to mean she forged it.

Which, from her book, is no big step.

Whet her she was LBJ's misress or not is of no interest to me and the rest of it has no credibility.

Besides which much of what she says is not possible.

Many thanks and best to you all,

Harold
